OUR PRODUCTS

GOLDEN RAISIN-BACCATE

Golden raisins are made from seedless green grapes. Harvesting commences in September, followed by immediate drying. The color of golden raisins varies from yellow, golden, or greenish-yellow to light amber. The harvested grapes undergo dipping, shade drying, and sulfur treatment, ensuring the residue remains limited and below 2000 ppm. This type of raisin, characterized by a predominant yellow or golden hue, boasts a unique, almost smoky and tart aftertaste.

KASHMARI GREEN RAISIN

The Kashmari green raisin is known for its elongated size, originating from the Pekami grape. Iranian Kashmari green raisins are renowned for their sweet taste and distinctively sour undertones, more suited to Eastern preferences. These raisins exhibit a light green color achieved by dipping the grapes and then drying them in the shade.

RAISINS IN THE SUN

Natural sun-dried Thompson seedless raisins are renowned for their sweet taste and distinctive raisin flavor. They are predominantly produced in the province of Qazvin, Iran. This type of raisin undergoes natural under drying.

SULTANA RAISIN

Sultana raisins are produced from seedless, white grapes. They are renowned for their delicate and unique flavor and are often available in bulk. This variety of raisin boasts a lighter color and a sweeter taste compared to other types of Iranian raisins.
